

BSOTS Podcast Ep. 41: What is the future of the Phoenix Suns recent lottery picks and how the team can

Written by

Wednesday, 09 October 2013 11:00 -

Round and around we go as the wheel spun, stopped, and landed on Jacob Padilla to join the conversation breaking down the Phoenix Suns strengths and unique line-ups this season.

As we saw in the pre-season tilt (scrimmage) with Maccabi Haifa the Suns are going to small on the perimeter and potentially very big in the front-court. Is that the teams strength this year? Playing two one's, two five's, and then a rotating wing to break up the odd complexion of the roster?

We mull that over with plenty of time to break down Doug McDermott and some college basketball. At about the 26 minute mark we ask the tough questions and project the Creighton star forward into the 2014 NBA Draft.

Full Podcast Here: Phoenix Suns Podcast Episode 41 w/Jacob Padilla

P.S.

Who would you rather have: Shabazz Muhammad or Doug McDermott?

We played Six Degrees of "Who would you rather have that led from Muhammad Kyle Korver... Yup, the conversation went that direction. Enjoy!