

Phoenix Suns to be featured on first-ever "live access" - online streaming begins at 10am

Written by

Friday, 13 December 2013 07:13 -

For the first time ever, the Phoenix Suns will be streaming live video of a day in the life of a basketball team.

Ever wonder what happens behind the scenes on gameday? Me too. Media is only allowed at certain, short points in the day and the public doesn't get in at all.

Now you can find out. Watch suns.com all day for live streaming .

The first-of-its-kind program will tip-off at 7:30 a.m. and will follow the team all the way up until the Suns ' pregame show on FOX Sports Arizona at 6:30 p.m., prior to the Suns' matchup with the Sacramento Kings on "Fan Appreciation Night."

Fans will receive a backstage pass to everything leading up to an NBA game, as cameras follow Suns players to breakfast, through practice, media interviews and treatments in the training room. The webcast will also take viewers into the coaches meetings and the team's locker room, and even into the home of Marcus and Markieff Morris, as their personal chef prepares their favorite pregame meal on Friday afternoon.

Check out suns.com today to see what happens all day long today, in prep for tonight's game. Maybe you'll even see Kris in an unintentional photo bomb.

Tonight is also Fan Appreciation Night - major discounts on apparel, giveaways, etc. Hopefully, the arena will be full.